Fairtrade Schools

Becoming a Fair Trade school is about much more than just getting a badge. The campaign can make a real difference to producers in developing countries. If a school meets all the criteria below they will be awarded a certificate by the Wales Fair Trade Forum in recognition of the effort they are making to promote and develop Fair Trade.

It's not as difficult as it might first look! Have a look at the Action Plan to becoming a Fair Trade School and then pick out the easiest bits to start with. And if you get stuck or need some further help, get in touch with the Wales Fair Trade Forum at www.fairtradewales.com.

Good Luck!

The Criteria

Set up a Fairtrade School Steering Group
N.B. This is a task that can be taken on by the School Council.
The group must:

- be made up of at least 50% pupils/ students with young people being given as much responsibility as possible for planning, decision-making, organising events and correspondence
- meet at least once a term
- have one named staff member and one named pupil as contacts for the duration of the application process
- involve a mixture of students/pupils, teaching staff, catering staff. The group could also involve governors, parents, local Fairtrade reps and others
- be the driving force to achieve and maintain Fairtrade School status
- be responsible for putting together the Fairtrade Schools policy

Write & adopt a whole school Fairtrade policy

- be included in the School Development Plan
- be approved by the Governors/School Board, School Council and all other school bodies for a discussion
- commit to promoting, selling and using as many Fairtrade products as possible, including food and drinks, sports balls and clothing.
- include a commitment to continue doing more to promote Fairtrade after the school has become a Fairtrade school

To achieve this you must:

- Sell in all possible outlets
- Provide and use at all events
- Use in the staff room and common rooms
- Plan to increase products available year on year

Commit to promoting and taking action for Fairtrade in school and in the wider community
This must include at least

- Three whole school activities or initiatives, one per term, including one during Fairtrade Fortnight
  N.B. These do not need to be huge! It might be a Fairtrade stall at a summer fair, a Fairtrade sock throwing contest during sports day, a Fairtrade wine tasting at parent's evening etc.
- One action to take the issues into the wider community
- Other appropriate learning experiences possibly including school enterprise groups, assemblies, displays, school plays, school newsletter or website etc.

What next?
When you have achieved Fairtrade School Status for your school, have a party, write to the newspapers – all that fun stuff. But it doesn't end here! Remember your Fairtrade policy commits you to continue to expand your Fairtrade activities. In order to have your hard earned Fairtrade School status renewed each year, you have to show you are continuing and deepening your activities.

To get renewal, you need to do at least three new things per year:

- one within the school
- one to do with the wider community
- one to do with wider global issues.
